
NEO4NEO¹

Moeschberg (Berne) May 24–27, 2023

Objectives

To offer junior doctors interested in developing a career in neonatal medicine or taking care specifically of neonates, state-of-the-art interactive teaching on key topics of neonatology and perinatal medicine. Teaching will be evidence based, clinically and practically oriented, and more importantly, will be 'inspiring'.

To establish close relationships between trainers and trainees as well as between trainees.

This should provide the basis for future clinical and scientific collaboration in the field of perinatal medicine in Switzerland.

Expectations of Participants

- Each participant is expected to attend the course from the beginning Wednesday evening to the end, Saturday around 14h. Please do not enroll if you cannot attend the full course!
- Senior trainees (those attending second course) will present one chosen topic (Powerpoint, English, 15' time including questions and discussion) This presentation can be done by one attendee alone or as a teamwork between two attendees from the same or from different hospitals.
- For the 2 1/2 days in a retreat, team spirit and active participation are expected for the teaching sessions. Each participant is also expected to contribute to the social happening after work that could include slides, music, games, stories etc.
